New ConTex-Commentary - issued:		26.11.20
The New ConTex shows no signs of stopping with another 2.8% gain compared to last week and all sizes registering increases. The Index is now at it's highest point since July 2011(!). Lack of supply remains to be very obvious, particularly for the larger sizes as there are hardly any vessels available above 3,000 TEU until the end of the year. The rather low activity over the past weeks should therefore not be taken as a turn in sentiment. Also the smaller segments continue to show considerable improvements not only in rates but also with longer periods. Looking at the year-on-year numbers, the winner is the baby panamax segment with a 66.6% gain, followed by the 2700 TEU size with an increase of 65.9%. Both sizes will surely improve further in the short term when looking at the most recent fixtures which are not yet reflected in the index figures. Lowest performer of the past 12 months has been the smallest segment of 1100 TEU with only 22.3% increase, so there is certainly room for further gains over the next weeks and months.
