New ConTex-Commentary - issued:		18.02.21
The New ConTex Index has continued its impressive rise, adding a further 24 points to stand at 842. The sustained demand from Operators coupled with adistinct lack of tonnage is leading to longer periods and rates often substantially above levels last-done. Inevitably all the component rates were marked higher with the increases generally in the range 2 - 4% above last week's figures. Only the largest sizes tracked by the Index (5700 TEUs and 6500 TEUs) were marked more modestly higher, but this is only due to the scarcity of fixtures being reported in these sizes and not any apparent levelling-off. Chinese New Year came and went and the market did not blink; there seems little doubt the Easter will have the same non-effect. In the short term at least, the market seems to have only one direction: up.
