New ConTex-Commentary - issued:		09.03.23
New ConTex increased 4 points to 736 driven predominantly by the 1100 TEU and 1700 TEU feeders, all other sectors only marginally moving in either direction. With the number of newbuilding deliveries looming on the horizon and steadily declining volumes in recent months, charterers have taken a cautious approach to fixing so far this year with very few committing beyond the Autumn. Over the past 3 weeks, however, chartering interest in feeders and the number of fixtures concluded has picked up significantly, especially in the 1700 TEU segments. This has offered owners some hope that the market as a whole might be on the rise again. Some owners have begun opting for shorter periods at higher rates while others are prioritising 12 month periods but obtaining rates which were recently available for 6 months. However despite this positivity the larger sizes continue to struggle, for now keeping a lid on the overall optimism and this week we have noticed an increase in the number of ships available worldwide, despite the diminishing supply under 2000.
