New ConTex-Commentary - issued:		08.06.23
The previous trend continued and also this week the New ConTex did slightly decrease by a barely noticeable 2 points in the Week-on-Week comparison. On a Month-on-Month comparison the Index is down by just below 1%. The slight decrease is mainly driven by adjusted numbers within the 2500 TEU-2700 TEU segments. Same can also be seen in the physical market as vessels of that size find it a bit more challenging to secure employment at their desired terms. Within that segment Charterers do actually have a bit more vessels to chose from for their openings. Still not many though and the decrease in the daily charter rate is not tremendous in order to secure a 12 months charter. The segments of 4250 TEU and above still enjoy a very stable environment and it will be very interesting to see how long the recently started strike actions at the US West Coast will continue and what kind of impact that will have. If same is going to last longer these segments might even strengthen further but for the time being it is definitely too early to tell.
