New ConTex-Commentary - issued:	10.08.23
The fall of the NEW CONTEX has slightly slowed down but 693 points mark another 2% decrease compared to one week ago. However, the seemingly moderate 2% do not reflect the true two-tier market, especially in the smaller segments. In Asia the situation is far tenser and the steady influx of newbuildings has led to not only weaker rates but also periods are much shorter than in the Atlantic. For 1100s and 1700s the rate differential is now about USD 2000 and the Owners are ready to consider longer positionings to more friendly areas. In the bigger sizes there is much less activity but one Panmax which became available was quickly fetched up by the next taker. Nonetheless also in this size periods have shortened to one year only which is much different to the previous years.
